WHAT WE'VE BUILT

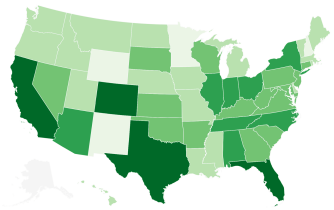

Four connected tools, built by a small team

- Ready for Reentry. 22 lessons on Edovo tablets, built on the Risk-Need-Responsivity model. Each lesson adds to a written Reentry Plan.
- ReentryDB. Requests, plans and release dates arrive with consent, and state corrections records tell us who is close to release.
- Reentry Partnership. Free online training for volunteers who write to someone preparing for release.
- ReentryMap. 5,781 reentry services in all 50 states and DC.

WHO WE ARE

Six years of welcoming people home

Embraced:Fully started in 2020, welcoming people home through small teams of local volunteers. The course now lets us reach thousands.

Scientific Advisory Board. Ten reentry scholars, convened with David Harding of UC Berkeley, with members at Arizona State, Cornell, CU Boulder, Maryland, NC State, Northeastern, Penn State, UCLA and the University at Albany.

Team. Gabriel Serafini and David Fowler, DMin, co-founders. AmiLynne Carroll, Reentry Navigator.

THE NEXT 12 MONTHS

A year of support for 100 people a month

In 2027 our pilot becomes the Reentry Partnership Program. Each person gets a year of support that starts 90 days before release, coordinated by a Reentry Navigator.

- Feedback on their Reentry Plan
- Help with housing and work
- A Correspondence Partner
- A phone and text line once home

100 a month
by January 2027, 1,200 people a year

250 a month
our stretch goal by March 2027

About $300
per person for a year of support

INNOVATION

An AI reentry companion

More people ask for help than we can match with volunteers. Our AI companion will give everyone steady, practical help after release and bring in a person when one is needed.

INSIDE The course builds each person's Reentry Plan, shared with us by consent.

RELEASE State records and our Reentry Tracker show who is coming home, and where.

HOME A phone and text companion that already knows their plan and finds local help on ReentryMap.

Built with care. Crisis messages go to a person right away. The companion gives no legal, parole or medical advice, and we test it thoroughly first.

Built to measure itself. An outcome study with our Scientific Advisory Board will compare AI support alone with AI support plus a volunteer.

Partners. Edovo carries the course on its tablets. The Principle Foundation is our fiscal sponsor. CEO Works is a partner in Colorado.
